2018 GREAT SHAKEOUT EARTHQUAKE DRILL

The Great ShakeOut Earthquake Drill is an opportunity to prepare yourself, your family, and your organization by practicing protective actions to take during earthquakes and other aspects of your emergency plans.

- The Great ShakeOut Earthquake Drill will occur on 10/18/18 at 1018 hours.
- Join 10 million Californians by participating in the ShakeOut Earthquake Drill and Drop, Cover, and Hold On or Lock, Cover, and Hold On
- During an emergency, communication is important. Always have an extra list of important contact telephone numbers written down in case you lose or are unable to charge your telephone; then you will still be able to contact others to let them know you are safe or that you need assistance.
- Remember to update or assemble an emergency supply kit, make a plan, and know how, where, and when to safely evacuate.
- The drill is more fun when it is done with friends, family, neighbors, and colleagues.
- For more information and to sign up to participate visit:

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

- Persistent high pressure over the region will continue the warm, dry and occasionally breezy weather through Sunday.
- Daytime minimum relative humidity (RH) 5-18% most areas west of the crest, with overnight recovery to 10-30% in windy areas, only slightly higher later this week and this weekend.
- N-NE/Offshore gusts to 20-35 mph this morning throughout the western Cascade-Sierra slopes, the Sacramento Valley and surrounding foothills, and on the mid and upper slopes of the Coast Range, diminishing by this afternoon.
- N-NE/Offshore gusts to 25 mph nights and mornings throughout the western Cascade-Sierra slopes, the Sacramento Valley and surrounding foothills, and on the mid and upper slopes of the Coast Range through Sunday, with light onshore/up-valley/upslope during afternoons. Warm and very dry conditions will persist.
- Spotty light rain possible in week 2 with low pressure troughs arriving.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

- Surface pressure gradients will continue to support offshore winds today. However, wind speeds should be far weaker than Monday morning. Temperatures will warm through the week, likely peaking on Friday and Saturday. Cooler weather will return early next week.
- North-Northeast winds of 15-30 mph with infrequent gusts of 45-55 mph over the mountains of Southern California this morning. Wind speeds should peak around 10 am before gradually decreasing this afternoon. Some of the strongest winds may occur in northern Los Angeles County, the Cajon Pass, and the Inland Empire.
- Lighter offshore winds, after today, expected the rest of the week. Winds of 10-15 mph will be possible each night through morning across higher elevations of Southern California and along the central coast.
- Minimum humidity will be in the 8-15% range today. Minimum values will generally be in the teens the rest of the week. Poor RH recovery in the mountains each night through Saturday.
- High temperatures climbing 1-2 degrees each day. The warmest days will be Friday and Saturday when the valleys and lower foothills from San Luis Obispo County southward see readings in the upper 80s to lower 90s. Slight cooling trend and an increase in clouds likely Sunday and Monday
- Isolated showers and thunderstorms will be possible in the desert next Sunday and Monday.
